Dear Colleague,

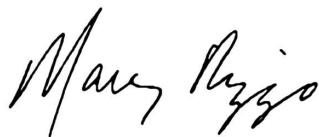

Supply chain teams that run SAP systems are sitting on gold! It does not matter what industry you are in, or what SAP version you are running, you are guaranteed to gain immediate, real, and quantifiable results by attending Supply Chain Bootcamp. Due to repeated requests from past attendee's who are interested to continue and expand learning opportunities to their extended supply chain support teams; SAPinsider is rolling out the Supply Chain Bootcamp to 3 select cities in 2010.

Learn about underutilized functionality and exciting new techniques that you can apply right away to improve your company's bottom line. Discover reporting and data management tools (that you already own) that can enhance visibility, integration, and process alignment throughout your entire supply chain. See how to create business processes that elevate supply chain personnel to "owners," and put the right tools, reports, and performance techniques in their hands. Break down the silos that separate critical, interdependent operations — including purchasing, production, inventory, warehouse, fulfillment, and vendor collaboration — within the SAP system you are now running.

I promise you that despite your years of managing your piece of the supply chain puzzle, by attending this seminar, you will learn something that will improve the way you address every day challenges at your job. You can't afford to miss this educational and networking seminar, because it will save your company time and resources!

I hope you give this seminar a try. You will not only learn from our expert presenters, you will have a great time doing it. The seminar creates a unique, spirited, and engaging atmosphere of learning. We are so confident that you will come away satisfied, we're backing this seminar with a 100% money-back guarantee so there's no risk involved in attending. If you want to learn more about the value this event has to offer, please feel free to call me at +1-781-751-8700.
